WHAT IS GENERAL MISCONDUCT?

General misconduct is unacceptable behaviour that is likely to cause harm, injury or damage, such as:

- threatening or causing physical or psychological harm
- harassment, intimidation, stalking, bullying, hazing, vilification
- non-consensual sexual contact
- damage to or interference with property of the University or of another person
- breaching a law of a country in which the student is located for the purposes of a university activity
- breaching a University statute, University regulation or a published policy or procedure of the University
- disrupting the orderly conduct of a University activity
- engaging in dishonest or fraudulent activity
- failing to comply with a reasonable direction of a member of staff, including a request made by a security officer to produce identification
- possessing unauthorised material in an exam

WHO CAN REPORT MISCONDUCT TO THE UNIVERSITY?

A staff member who has reasonable grounds to believe that a student has committed a misconduct offence, must report the matter to the Responsible Officer. In conduct of a sexual nature, the staff member cannot make a report unless they have the consent of the person whom the misconduct was directed towards.

A student can report the misconduct to a staff member. In conduct of a sexual nature, a student can also report the matter to Safer Communities and the student will be informed of their options.

WHAT HAPPENS IF MONASH UNIVERSITY CONSIDERS THAT A STUDENT MAY HAVE ENGAGED IN GENERAL MISCONDUCT?

As part of the investigation into the matter, the University will send you a letter outlining the suspected breach or allegations. You will be asked to fill in the response form and/or attend a meeting.

Contact Student Rights + Support as soon as you receive this letter.
